SALIES.

July 1st 1863?-when did the Alexandria Constitution go into effect. These important questions have been answered recently in an able opinion of Judge Sheffey, in a case arising in the Circuit Court of Helson county. The plaintiff on the 11th day of March, 1865, exchanged a negro girl as a plave, with the defendant, for half of a portable saw mill. The girl remained with the plaintiff by defendants request, until after the miliary power of the Federal forces was extended permanently over the Plaintiff's residence, when she left as a free woman.

The plaintiff having sued the defendant for his half of the mill, the defendant claimed among other defences that, First, The girl was set free by the proclamation of President Lincoln, on the 1st of January, 1863, and consequently there was no consideration for the contract.

Secondly, If that was not the case, yet, as slavery was abolished in Virginia, by the Alexandria Constitution, on the 7th of April, 1864, the negro was free and formed no consideration for the contract.

Judge Sheffer overruled both of the pleas, and in his decision of the case proceeded to say that the proclamation of Lincoln was not justified by the Constitution of the United States, nor by his position as commander-in-chief of the army, and was consequently a mere brutum fulmen, and is understood to have been so supposed by Lincoln himself. He, therefore, declares that the negro was not emancipated by than she mas ever offered before. Also, all the the action of Mr. Lincoln's proclamation. She different styles of STRAW GOODS, including was then still a slave up to the 7th of April, the GIPSIES, which are very beautiful-to all 1865, at which time the Alexandria caucus got up a constitution, abolishing slavery in this

As to the second point, after fully discussing the whole subject fairly, the Judge decides that the Alexandria constitution had no effect in that portion of the State undercontrol of the government at Richmond, at least, until the that the girl was a slave up to that date.

In the summing up his opinion, he says, "that the government of Virginia, seated in Richmond, was, to say the least, a de facto the contracts and acts of subjects of that government inter sese, must be construed and en forced in any friendly forum, according to the laws of the defacto government, and not according to new and adver-e ensements of even a de jure government, passed whilst out of the possession of the sovereignty and de facto power, such enactments being inoperative in contemplation of law, until they can be enforced, the best Syrups kept in a No. 1 Saloon. and thenceforward prospectively only.

If the girl was freed by the proclamation of the 1st Jacuary, 1863, of course she would be antitled to see for her wages from that time, as well as prosecute for false imprisonment, and if she was chastised at any time sub-equent to the 1st January, 1863, might prosecute for assault and battery.

HIGHEST PRICE EVER PAID FOR TOBACCO. -We understand that a hogshead of tobacco. exhibited by our enterprising townsman, Mr. John W. Stone, at the National Tobacco Fair ir Cincinnati, yesterday, was awarded the first promium in the first class, and was then sold for the extraordinary and unprecedented price of $905 per hundred pounds. The hogshead weighed 570 lbs. nett. This is the highest price ever paid for leaf tobacco in the world and shows that Virginia tobacco, now, as heretofore connot be competed with by that of any State in the Union, or of any country in the world. The premium, we understand, is a fine silver tea sett, valued at $150°-Fredericksburg News
